LEGISLATIVE DAY 18 OF 40

Hello Partners! Welcome back to the Night Owl 🦉, your nightly recap of need-to-know information and intel on what's happening under the Gold Dome.

The Georgia Senate approved income tax legislation today, passing Senate Bill 476, which would eliminate state income taxes for individuals earning under $50,000 and families earning under $100,000, while repealing dozens of existing tax credits. Lawmakers also passed Senate Bill 477, a companion measure that would gradually reduce the overall income tax rate to as low as 3.99 percent if revenue targets are met. Supporters describe the package as meaningful relief for working families, but critics warn that the long-term impact on school funding, health care access, and other essential services could outweigh the short-term benefit.

Meanwhile, lawmakers debated new restrictions on how SNAP benefits can be used, with proposals that would limit certain food purchases made with EBT cards. Democratic legislators and advocates raised concerns that the changes could make it harder for low-income families to stretch already tight grocery budgets. A House committee also reviewed proposals to restructure Georgia's public health system, focusing on governance and workforce challenges, even as broader funding questions remain unresolved.

We hope you enjoy The Night Owl. Please let us know if you have any suggestions for additional content!

RESEARCH AND POLLING

About half of Americans say they are worn out by news, and many have tuned out

% of U.S. adults who say they ...

The majority of Americans feel it's important to keep up with the news but find it overwhelming or irrelevant

Most Americans acknowledge that it's important to be informed about the news, with 80% agreeing that Americans have a responsibility to be informed about the news when they vote. Yet views on news engagement are mixed with 52% saying they feel worn out by the amount of information and 48% feeling that the news they encounter isn't relevant to their lives.

Majority of middle class Americans believe economic opportunities have been decreasing over the past years

Financial differences between two classes of Americans reflect the widening gap in economic expectations. Majority (62%) of polled wealthy people believed that economic opportunities such as buying a house, getting a good job, and raising a family are increasing in recent years while the majority of middle class people (53%) believe these opportunities are decreasing.

Less Than Half of U.S. Adults Are Confident in Federal Health Agencies To Make Recommendations for Childhood Vaccines

How much confidence do you have in federal government health agencies like the CDC and FDA to make recommendations about childhood vaccine schedules?

Americans are losing trust in the CDC under Trump's presidency

Most Americans (54%) think that the Trump administration's changes to the childhood vaccine schedule will have a negative impact on children's health. Since September 2023, Democrat trust in the CDC has fallen from majority (88%) to half (55%), while both Republican (43%) and Independent (46%) steadily remain untrusting.
